

Problem: Students on campus may find it hard to communicate and find new things to do

Solution: A phone app developed for the universities use (working name CROW!) that allows all students to talk to each other so long as they are physically located on campus, similar to the Yik Yak app